

Leave and Attendance Policy

Sample training document for demonstrating a PDF-based Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) application.

1. Casual Leave

Employees are entitled to 12 casual leave days per calendar year. Casual leave is intended for short personal needs. Employees should request planned casual leave through the leave system before taking the leave whenever possible.

2. Sick Leave

Employees are entitled to 10 sick leave days per calendar year. If illness prevents an employee from working, the employee should notify the manager as soon as reasonably possible. Supporting medical documentation may be requested according to company procedures.

3. Annual Leave

Employees receive 15 annual leave days per calendar year. Annual leave should normally be requested in advance so that the team can plan work and coverage.

4. Leave Approval

Leave requests are reviewed by the employee's reporting manager. Approval depends on staffing requirements, business needs, and the employee's available leave balance. Submitting a request does not by itself mean that the leave has been approved.

5. Unplanned Absence

For an unexpected absence, the employee should notify the reporting manager or designated contact as soon as possible. The employee should update the attendance or leave system when required.
